

LINERS CRASH IN FOG

Huge Minnehaha Tears Plates Off the Etruria.

PANIC AMONG PASSENGERS

Heavy Mist Forces Commander to Drop Anchor and Following Steamship Crashes Into Her—Damage Not Serious and Both Continue on Their Voyage—Minnehaha Not Injured.

New York, Oct. 20.—In the thick mist which hung over the upper bay to-day the giant Atlantic Transport Line steamship Minnehaha, loaded with passengers and live stock for London, crashed into the Cunard Line steamship Etruria off quarantine. Both vessels were bound out.

The screams of the Etruria's passengers, most of whom were on the decks when the collision occurred, was the first warning those in the quarantine and other government offices ashore had of the accident.

The fog prevented seeing the two steamships and men put off in small boats. The doctors' boats and the revenue-cutters were busy with incoming steamships.

Panic on Both Vessels.

As soon as the first small boat returned from the Etruria it was definitely announced that one had been injured, but the officers had difficulty in quelling the panic which reigned on both vessels.

When the Etruria reached quarantine the fog was still heavy, and the skipper ordered the anchors dropped. The anchors were just sinking into the mud when suddenly, out of the mist and fog, loomed up the towering bow of the high-setting Minnehaha.

Suddenly there was a clanging of bells in the engine rooms, a swirling of water as the reversing propellers shuddered the foam, and as the startled officers shouted, and frightened passengers screamed, the great, black, knife-shaped bow of the Minnehaha came slowly up to the Etruria, and backed by its 20,000 tons of moving weight, tore into the port quarter of the Cunard liner bent her upper plates, and tore away a long section of the rail.

In a second the reversing engines of the Minnehaha had commenced to back up the great ship, and she slowly disappeared in the mist.

But on the deck of the Etruria the excitement was intense. Officers tried to reassure the passengers, the danger was no longer, but the passengers saw the hole.

Small boats lowered by the Etruria and the Minnehaha showed the hole did not reach to the waterline, and that information reassured the passengers.

After an investigation Capt. Robinson found that the bow plates of the Minnehaha were bent, but not badly enough to prevent him from going to sea, and when the fog lifted at 10 a. m. weighed anchor and started across the Atlantic.

After a careful investigation it was decided that the Etruria was not injured so badly as to prevent her voyage, and she, too, kept on her way.

NEW PURE FOOD REGULATIONS.

Secretary of Agriculture Makes Public Method of Enforcing Law.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson yesterday issued the regulations for the enforcement of the pure food and drug act, passed at the last session of Congress. The law will go into effect January 1.

Its purpose is to protect the purchaser of a food product or drug from any deception on the part of either a dealer or a manufacturer. The regulations are to be labeled so as to show their exact character. If they are adulterated, the label must show it.

In the regulations promulgated the widest publicity is provided for any dealer or manufacturer detected in misbranding or adulterating food or drug products in violation of the law.

Rule 6 of the regulations states: "When a judgment of the court shall have been rendered there may be a publication of the findings of the examiner or analyst, together with the findings of the court. This publication may be made in the form of circulars, notices, or bulletins, as the Secretary of Agriculture may direct, not less than thirty days after judgment."

For example, if the grocer on the corner sold a can of green peas preserved by an admixture of boracic acid, the fact would be heralded in the neighborhood after the case had been tried in the courts on a complaint to the Washington authorities. Manufacturers and dealers are permitted to give a general guarantee of their goods by filing a statement with the Secretary of Agriculture. This obviates the necessity of guaranteeing each substance.

Mineral substances of all kinds are specifically forbidden in confectioneries, whether they be poisonous or not. Coal-tar colors cannot be used in confections if they are mineral in character.

Respecting the wholesomeness of colors, preservatives, and other substances which are added to foods, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to determine, from chemical or other examinations, the names of these substances which are permitted or prohibited in food products; his conclusions shall become a part of the regulations.

The term "label" applies to any printed pictorial or other matter upon or attached to any package of a food or drug product, or any container thereof. The regulation regarding the label will not be enforced until October 1, 1907, in the case of labels printed and now on hand, but it is required that a poster shall be attached to packages of such goods accurately stating the character of their contents.

The use of a geographical name in connection with a food or drug product will not be deemed a misbranding when by reason of long usage it has come to represent a generic term, and is used to indicate style, type, or brand, but in all such cases the State or Territory where any such article is manufactured or produced shall be stated upon the label.

The following rules will be of special interest to blenders of whiskey: "The term 'blend' applies to a mixture of like substances, not excluding harmless coloring or flavoring ingredients used for the purpose of coloring and flavoring only. If any article is stated, it shall not be that of a single one of its constituents, but shall be the average of all constituents in their respective proportions."

Imported meat and meat food products must be officially inspected before being placed on sale.

Captured a Runaway.

H. M., better known as "Tubby," Dickinson, well-known as an athlete and football player, and the idol of the Columbia Athletic Club in its palmy days, captured a runaway horse from the District Building yesterday. The horse proceeded to give an imitation of the famous Maud, and a large crowd was attracted to the scene, which, however, kept at a respectful distance from the animal's heels. Although a powerful man, it was a some difficulty that Mr. Dickinson held the horse until the arrival of his owner.

SEEK CAUSE OF SHORTAGE.

Federal Grand Jury Will Take Up Inquiry at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—The inquiry into the shortage in the subtreasury, which has already resulted in the suspension of the receiving teller, D. P. Dyer, jr., and his companion, the paying teller, Marshall B. Ferguson, has now taken the form of a general investigation into the local subtreasury. Whether the shortage is due to a defalcation or is the result of an error in accounting will be known as soon as the cash has been counted.

The Federal grand jury meets November 16 and will at once begin an investigation. If it should be shown that the discrepancy is due to a mistake or faulty bookkeeping, an effort will be made to fix the responsibility.

The entire financial affairs of the government in St. Louis will be investigated. Owing to the fact that the United States district attorney, Mr. Dyer, is the father of the suspended receiving teller, he has asked the Department of Justice in Washington to relieve him from duty in connection with the case.

WARRANT FOR EMERY

Fusion Candidate for Governor Sued for Libel.

McNICHOL DEMANDS $250,000

Exception Is Taken to Charge that Complainant Bought Democratic Votes for Quay in Memorable Legislative Fight in 1901—Case Will Not Be Pushed at Present.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 20.—A warrant calling for the arrest of Lewis Emery, fusion candidate for governor, was issued just before noon to-day by Magistrate McCleary, at his Junior street office. The complainant was James P. McNichol, and the charge was criminal libel.

Half an hour later suit for damages was entered by Mr. McNichol's attorneys, A. S. L. Shields and George S. Graham, in Common Pleas Court No. 2. Mr. Emery was made the defendant, and $250,000 was demanded by Mr. McNichol as compensation for injuries alleged to have been inflicted on his good name and character. The suit charged slander.

Immediately after the warrant was issued the lawyers sent a letter to Mr. Emery. They wrote that they knew him to be a man of property, and therefore had not asked that he be fixed in the civil suit. They, however, requested him to enter bail to appear and answer the charge of criminal libel, so as to avoid the annoyance of an actual arrest on a service of the warrant.

Will Not Disturb Candidate.

"We desire to have the matter disposed of as speedily as possible," read the letter, "but are unwilling to even seem to interfere in any manner with your present engagements."

Mr. Emery was informed that he could suit his own convenience about fixing the time for his appearance, and he was given the choice of fixing a time either before or after election.

The criminal suit against Mr. Emery and the suit for damages was caused by a speech which he is reported as having made at Lebanon, Pa., on October 15, in which Emery charged that Mr. McNichol bought five Democratic votes in the legislature of 1901 to support Marshall's election as speaker of the house. Marshall was the Quay candidate, and on his election depended Quay's return to the Senate.

Emery declared that after Quay had given up the struggle as hopeless McNichol jumped in and would turn the tide. Emery charged that McNichol bribed five Democratic members of the legislature to vote for Marshall, and that he paid $15,000 for each vote.

5,000 Hear Emery Speak.

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 20.—Lewis Emery, reform candidate for governor, and State Treasurer Berry spent a strenuous day campaigning here. Northampton County. This morning they spoke briefly at Easton. From there the party took a special trolley car to Bangor, where a meeting took place.

The big meeting of the day took place here to-night. Five thousand people crowded into Municipal Hall to hear Mr. Emery talk on State issues.

BRYAN HASTENS TO INDIANA.

Former Candidate Cancels Engagements in Colorado and Goes East.

Denver, Col., Oct. 20.—William J. Bryan had so pressing an engagement in Indiana that he canceled his Denver speaking engagements here to-night and left at once for the East. The Hoosiers want his assistance in their campaign for election of Congressmen, and the Nebraskaans evidently regard their messages as too urgent to be disregarded.

Mr. Bryan has just completed a flying trip through Colorado, making a series of speeches, in which he denounced the State Supreme Court's decision in corporation cases as "a positive disgrace," and expressed the hope that the President would, though following in Democratic footsteps, be "not large enough to fit them."

ALLEE AIDS OPPONENT.

Senator "Tarns the Other Check" and Gets Out Vote.

Dover, Del., Oct. 20.—United States Senator Alleé has a remarkable exhibition of "turning the other cheek" to-day. Republican leaders found some of his friends smarting over his defeat of a fortnight ago and refusing to register.

About a dozen of his opponents, fearing shrinkage in the doubtful Dover districts, appealed to him for help. Alleé immediately sallied forth in the rain, and for two hours hustled from house to house, until every Republican was registered, and his district showed a total of 52.

Throughout Lower Delaware the registration was heavy and shows an awakened interest in Delaware's strained political situation.

CLEWS' JEWELS GONE

New York Banker Robbed of $10,000 Worth of Gems.

TAKEN DURING DINNER HOUR

Maid in House Held Under Heavy Bond on Suspicion—Loot Comprised Diamonds, Sapphires, and Pearls Kept Under Lock and Key in Mrs. Clews' Room—List of the Booty.

New York, Oct. 20.—On suspicion of being implicated in the theft of jewels valued at $10,000, from the house of John H. Clews, the Wall-street broker, Mrs. Clews was arrested this morning by the police of the East Fifty-first street station, Manhattan. On arraignment before Magistrate Crane, in the Yorkville court, the woman was held in $10,000 bail for further examination on Monday. She refused to make any statement to the police. No trace of the missing jewels has been discovered.

The maid is one of five servants employed in the house, but the other four have been so long in service that no suspicion was attached to them. Both in court and at police headquarters she refused to make any statement.

Gems Locked in Room.

The robbery was discovered by Mr. Clews last evening, when he found all his secret jewels had disappeared. Mrs. Clews found about the same time that her jewel case was missing. They questioned the servants, and when they called in detectives from the East Fifty-first street station the Charters girl was arrested. Mrs. Clews, a nephew of Henry Clews, said at his Broad street office to-day:

"The jewels disappeared while we were at dinner. The girl was upstairs at the time, and the police for that reason decided upon the arrest, which they made upon their own responsibility. Mrs. Clews' room was locked, and it was either opened by a skeleton key or by one who knew where Mrs. Clews' key was kept. The jewels were worth about $10,000, and consisted chiefly of trinkets. My pins were worth about $1,500."

The list of the stolen jewels submitted to the police by Mrs. Clews includes the following:

Five brooches, with diamond settings. Twenty-five stick pins. Seven pearls and sapphires. Two diamonds. Two turquoises.

One emerald ring. Three diamond stud earrings. One gold chain bracelet, marked "Jesse Clews." Two diamond bracelets.

One lady's gold watch and gold neck chain.

Up to the present proved misleading, and the "captain" is still at large. Meetings were held to-day at Koepenik, at which resolutions were adopted expressing sympathy with the burglar, who has been removed, calling for his reinstatement, and protesting against the arrest and confinement in the comic papers of Berlin, which have been poking all kinds of fun at the burglar and the town officials for the way in which they allowed themselves to be humiliated.

The washerwomen of Koepenik hold a special meeting for the same purpose. They do a great deal of washing for Berlin, and are afraid that the ridicule of their town will injure their trade.

PACKING MERGER UNDER WAY

English Holding Company Formed to Take Over Chicago Plants.

Volume of Business Runs Nearly $75,000,000 a Year—Effort to Consolidate Proved a Failure.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—The announcement from New York that an English holding company is being formed to take over all the American packing plants bears out rumors which have been current in La Salle street for several weeks.

It is stated that conferences have been held here at frequent intervals, at which the chief packing house representatives have been present. What has been accomplished cannot be learned from the men interested, but it is assumed that the negotiations look to a purchase of minor companies which heretofore have not been considered part of the "Big Six."

Rumors say that already there is a consolidation agreement of some kind between Swift interests and the Armour's.

Capital of Companies.

If the holding company is organized and takes in the chief concerns, the line-up will be as follows: Armour & Co., capital, $20,000,000; Swift & Co., $50,000,000; Nelson Morris & Co., $30,000,000; National Packing Company, $15,000,000; Schwartzchild & Sulzberger Company, $10,000,000, and Cudahy Packing Company, nominal.

The volume of business handled by these six concerns probably runs close to $75,000,000 a year. The plan necessary to swing the business in all likelihood is close to $50,000,000.

A national merger of all packing concerns has been a logical economical possibility, and even probability, for several years. In 1902 the United States Packing Company was all but organized with prospective capital of $50,000,000 for just such a purpose as that outlined now.

Project Is Abandoned.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. were to have financed the project, and would have done so had not a light money period of 1902 and 1903 caused such stock market disturbances that the negotiations were abandoned.

When the deal fell through there was the necessity of taking care of the concerns that actually had been brought up to put into the merger. To make these companies carry themselves, the National Packing Company was formed with a capital of $15,000,000. The building company from time to time has been supposed to show that a beef trust exists, by reason of its association with Swift & Co. on the board.

DR. SWALLOW SUES EDITORS.

Former Prohibition Candidate Resents Attack on Him.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—Dr. Silas C. Swallow, former Prohibition candidate for President, ordered his attorneys to-day to begin civil and criminal suits for libel against former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, editor of the Philadelphia Press, and against some score of other newspapers of Pennsylvania, which printed Smith's attack on him.

Swallow last week declared that Smith had put Lewis Emery, fusion candidate for governor, to bed while the latter was in the city.

The Press replied in a bitter article, in which it was stated that Swallow had been dismissed from the ministry for lying. It is on this article that Swallow brings suit.

SHOT BY UNKNOWN NEGRO.

Joseph Dent May Die as Result of Unwarranted Attack.

While walking along the Benning road last night at 10:30 o'clock, Joseph Dent, colored, was shot in the head by one of three unknown colored men who were walking behind him. He is seventeen years of age, and lives near Benning.

He was hurried to the Emergency Hospital, where the bullet entered the brain, lodged deeply in the left side of his head. The victim was unable to describe any of his assailants. The police have not as yet been able to discover who the men were or whether the shooting was intentional or accidental. It is thought that Dent will die.

LYNCHED IN HOUSE, YARD.

Mystery Surrounds Finding of Negro's Body Hanging to Limb.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 20.—A negro, about forty years old, was found hanging to the limb of a tree on the farm of Horace Coleman's home, nine miles from Lexington, to-day. The indications are that he was lynched, but no one in the neighborhood appears to know him or to have any knowledge of a crime.

TOWN OBJECTS TO RIDICULE

Victim of Pseudo Army Captain Protests Against Comics.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Fresh proofs have come to hand of the amazing powers of bluff of the pseudo army captain who recently held up and robbed the mayor and municipal authorities of Koepenik. A porter at the railroad station at Rixdorf told the police to-day that the "captain" appeared at the station last Tuesday afternoon when nobody was about.

He said he wanted to make a little pleasure trip to Berlin, but as it was impossible for one of his rank to do so in uniform he asked permission to use the waiting room to change his uniform for civilian clothes, which he carried in a band-box. The porter allowed him to do so. When he was leaving the "captain" patted the porter on the shoulder and said with evident good humor:

"I promise to be of use to you in your after career," at the same time giving him three marks.

All supposed clues to the robber have up to the present proved misleading, and the "captain" is still at large. Meetings were held to-day at Koepenik, at which resolutions were adopted expressing sympathy with the burglar, who has been removed, calling for his reinstatement, and protesting against the arrest and confinement in the comic papers of Berlin, which have been poking all kinds of fun at the burglar and the town officials for the way in which they allowed themselves to be humiliated.

TO LAY CORNER-STONE MAY 4.

Site for New Masonic Temple to Be Vacated Soon.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Masonic Temple Association held in Scottish Rite Hall, 307 G street northwest, last evening, resolutions were unanimously adopted which declared that the corner-stone of the temple should be laid not later than May 1, 1907, and that the tenants now occupying the property should be removed for the purpose of yielding possession to the association by December 1 of this year.

The resolutions also included a vote of thanks to retiring Consulting Architect Brother E. A. Crane, whose removal from Washington occasioned his resignation. A similar vote was extended to Brother Elliott Wood, who will fill the position left vacant by Mr. Crane's resignation.

It was further decided to hold a fair, probably in April next, which will continue for a week or more, and which will be devoted to the building of the temple.

The site of the temple is the triangular piece of property bounded by New York avenue, Thirteenth and H streets northwest. It contains about 16,000 square feet, and has been purchased and paid for, the price being $115,000.

The temple itself will be a magnificent structure, seven stories in height, and will cost in the neighborhood of $400,000. The plans of the architects, Wood, Donn, & Deming, have already been accepted. The building will be of the classic style, and will be very simple, while the archaic windows, by their shape, size, and disposition, will lend a mystic character to the structure.

The building will be constructed of Indiana limestone, as will the cornice and other architectural features, including the columns and balustrades, while the main body will be of selected gray brick, and the roof will be surmounted by an attic with a balustrade.

The main portion of the basement and the vaults extending under the sidewalk will comprise an immense banquet hall; the first floor will be a great auditorium, designed as a music hall and fitted with a grand organ; also a specialty nine floor for dancing.

On the second and third floors will be the rooms of the Blue Lodge, and a library. The Knights Templar will be accommodated on the fourth floor, with its own commodious ante-rooms, and a special room for dancing.
